

Ten Die When Movie Planes Crash and Fall

Waters of Pacific Cover Bodies of Seven—Three Others Recovered and Placed in Morgue.

Santa Monica, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP).—The placid Pacific rolled gently today over the water sepulchre of seven of the ten men who yesterday met a flaming death three thousand feet above the sea in catering to a public whim. The charred and shattered bodies of the other three were in a morgue, where sorrowing relatives will claim them before the world forgets.

They were making a motion picture thriller.

Had they succeeded, the world would never have seen or known them.

For they were behind-the-scenes—directors, cameramen, property men and airplane pilots.

Yesterday they soared above the sea—two plane loads of men and cameras and equipment. They hovered over a third plane, waiting for a "stunt man" to drop toward the water with his parachute. They were to make a thrilling sequence in a story based on the disappearance of Captain Alfred Doolittle, Belgian financier, from a plane crossing the English channel on July 5, 1928.

The cameras were grinding and nerves were tensed for the final swoop when either a pilot erred, a flashing sun ray blinded or a vagrant air current played a role as a messenger of death. No one lived to tell what it was.

Suddenly the planes whipped together almost head-on. Wings splintered, crumpled and folded back. Cabins ground together, telescoped. Gasoline tanks burst and flared. In the twinkling of an eye the combined wreckage shot seaward.

Three bodies were catapulted from the flame-spewing hulks during the hissing plunge, and fell into the water away from the volcanic spout of spray, fire and smoke which marked the crash of the planes on the surface.

Within a few minutes only a thin film of oil, flattening out the white-capped waves, bore evidence of the tragedy. No more bodies appeared and no wreckage came to the surface.

The dead: Kenneth Hawks, 32, Hollywood, motion picture director; husband of Mary Astor, actor, film actress. Body not recovered.

Max Gold, 28, Hollywood, assistant director, married. Body recovered.

Conrad Wells, 31, Hollywood, cameraman, married. Body recovered.

George Eastman, 29, Santa Monica, cameraman, unmarried. Body not recovered.

Ben Grankel, 26, Hollywood, assistant cameraman, unmarried. Body recovered.

Otto Jordan, 26, Hollywood, assistant cameraman, unmarried. Body not recovered.

Tom Harris, 25, Hollywood, property man, married. Body not recovered.

Hank Johannes, 24, property man, unmarried. Body not recovered.

Ross Cook, 28, Santa Monica, pilot, unmarried. Body not recovered.

Mallock Rouse, 29, Santa Monica, pilot, unmarried. Body not recovered.

Jacob Triebwasser, parachute jumper, who had expected to risk his life in a hazardous leap into the sea, had not entered the scene when death stepped in as director.

He and his pilot, Lieutenant Colonel Roscoe Turner, and two companions, Fred Osborne and Bert White, motion picture technicians, started away unscathed, their plane not having been maneuvered into line with the camera ships.

Triebwasser was posing for his jump, waiting for the word from White, who, responsible for the timing of the leap, was watching the camera planes, when a thin cry wafted through the roar of the motors:

"Turner, here crashing!"

Turner, five hundred feet below the doomed camera planes, wheeled his ship well into the clear before the shrieking wreckage plunged by.

"I saw the planes," White said, "one of which was setting, come together. Their wings touched. Then the wings telescoped and the cabins crushed together. There was an explosive flash, and bodies were hurled out. The flaming ships began to fall like plummet into the sea."

"No one could have lived in those planes before they struck the water. They were enveloped in fire. They fell apart as they struck the surface of the ocean."

L. W. O'Connell, head cameraman of the Fox Film Corporation, for which the picture was being made, was stationed in a speed boat on the water under the planes, prepared to pick up Triebwasser after his jump.

He sped his boat to the spot, and picked up the bodies of Gold, Wells and Frankel. No water was found in their lungs, indicating they had died in the crash.

Reports from the fleet of searching craft that rapidly gathered that three other bodies had been picked up were dispensed when all boats were called in early today. The boatmen's reports were found to have been based only on the finding of the first three bodies. All others went down with the wreckage.

Mary Astor was prostrated when she finally was told of her husband's death. The tragic news was withheld from her until every vestige of hope

Meet for Further Revision of the Young Plan

The Hague, Jan. 3 (AP).—Final trimming, expansion and revision of the Young plan was the object today of representatives of thirteen nations meeting here for the second conference on reparations.

When they have concluded their labors—unless some unforeseen hitch develops—the Young plan will be referred back to the government for ratification and its schedule of annuities over 65 years actually will replace the present Dawes plan scale of annuities.

A meeting of from ten days to two weeks was hoped for, but there were those not so sanguine that pending matters could be disposed of in that time.

The problem which possibly will bring most discussion and draw national lines clearest, it was expected here today, will be Germany's demand that the idea of sanctions be eliminated from the creditor nations' reparations policy.

Although parliamentary ratification has not been given it, the German government has pledged its good faith in acceptance of the Young plan, and announced its intention to abide by its provisions. But in the event some circumstance should bring about a cessation of payments the Reich does not desire to have the Rhineland reoccupied, or other penalties imposed to exact further cash.

The Reich hopes that some sort of arbitration board can be provided which will determine responsibility in the event of defaulted payments and then employ sanctions if they are found necessary. This idea, somewhat modified, also is held by M. Briand.

Others in the French government are known to be less inclined to abandon what they consider guarantee that the German annuities will be made, and urge that France meet its war debt and other obligations from the money thus obtained. Broadly speaking the tendency among the remaining creditor nations seems to favor this French position.

Ultra Violet Rays And the Weather

Ottawa, Jan. 3 (AP).—Lighter rainfall, reduced crops, better radio reception, greater danger from forest fires, fewer electrical storms and increased fur production—these are some of possibilities suggested by an astronomer for this year.

Dr. Ralph E. Delury of the Dominion Observatory looks for a lessening of the sun's ultra-violet rays.

With vagaries of the sun's activities, investigation leads him to believe 1930 will see a reduction in rainfall with the many results which that entails.

All forms of electrical transmission improve when ultra-violet rays are weak. Static is lessened and radio reception is favorably affected. Aurora borealis, which obstructs long distance telegraph communication, becomes infrequent.

Dr. Delury's expectation of a bumper wheat crop in 1928 at the sun spot peak was followed by the greatest production of any year in Canadian history.

Sudheimer Heads Rapid Hose Co.

Fred Sudheimer was re-elected president at the annual meeting of Rapid Hose Company held Thursday evening at the fire house on Home street. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Augustus Buncie; recording secretary, Richard Hinkley; financial secretary, Walter Hotelling; foreman, Montgomery Bailey; first assistant, William Mooney; second assistant, George Reis; trustee, John Burger; steward, John Myers. Walter Albright was elected a delegate to the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association. Following the business meeting a smoker was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Gets Ninety Days in Jail.

Griffin Taylor, who says he bails from Mississippi, is serving ninety days in the Ulster county jail, having been on Thursday found guilty on a charge of being a disorderly person by Justice of the Peace John A. Boon of Ellenville. Taylor had been hanging around the village without any visible means of support. He will be kept out of mischief, have a place to sleep and something to eat for three months of the winter.

was gone. She is under the care of a physician in her Hollywood home.

Howard Hawks, brother-in-law of Norma Shearer, screen actress, escaped death because a whim caused him to change his mind, after he had gone to Clover Field with the intention of going up in one of the planes. William Hawks, another brother of Kenneth Hawks, recently married Bessie Love, film actress.

C. H. Tanner, president of the Tanager Aircraft Corporation, described both pilots as competent men of long experience. The Tanager Company had furnished the planes and the pilots for the picture work.

Tanner said the ships were in good condition when they left the field.

Fire Kills Two, Injures Three and Burns Naval Gig

Starts in Point Alongside U. S. S. Saratoga and Spreads on Surface of Gasoline Covered Water—Court of Inquiry Ordered.

San Pedro, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—A court of inquiry today was to convene aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga, giant naval aircraft carrier, to fix responsibility for a gasoline fire which yesterday brought death to two men, burned four others, three of them seriously, destroyed a gig valued at $25,000 and caused damage as yet unestimated to the starboard side of the carrier.

Commander A. C. Reid, senior officer of the Saratoga, said the fire originated in a Argentine pot in a bunk alongside the Saratoga, being the surface of the water, which was covered with residue from a gasoline compressor pump being cleaned aboard the Saratoga. The cause of the Argentine pot fire had not been determined.

The dead: Matthew La Vielle, 22, seaman, second class, 511 Madison street, San Francisco, N. Y.; nearest relative, mother, Mrs. Clara La Vielle, San Francisco. Body not recovered.

Vincent Valentine Lator, 29, engineer second class, Brooklyn, N. Y., body not recovered.

One injured: George William Febray, 19, Annapolis, Md., seaman second class, burned on face, expected to recover.

Henry Kennedy, 24, R. F. D. No. 2, Hampton, Conn., seaman first class, seriously burned, expected to recover.

Albert Lee Houston, 20, Centralia, Wash., seaman second class, seriously injured. Recovery in doubt.

B. J. Morton, seaman, second class, slightly burned.

The captain's gig, moored alongside the Saratoga, was burned. The names leaped 20 feet above the carrier's stacks and blackened about two-thirds of the starboard side, but failed to penetrate the interior of the ship.

The 1,500 crew members aboard were mustered to fight the fire, and succeeded in keeping the flames from a large quantity of combustible material carried on the ship. Damage to the huge carrier had not been estimated, but Commander Reid said a preliminary examination indicated that repairs can be made without difficulty while the ship remains at anchor.

The deaths of La Vielle and Lator were not discovered until some time after the flames had been extinguished.

La Vielle, who was painting the hull of the punt, called to Febray when the turpentine pot blazed, and together they threw it overboard into the gasoline-covered water. The flames immediately spread, and all aboard the punt and the gig nearby jumped into the water.

Lator was one of the three men aboard the gig.

Authorities believe that La Vielle and Lator, coming to the surface, inhaled flames and sank.

Morton was burned when he leaped from the Saratoga to save Febray. He grasped him and, with Kennedy and Houston, they were poked up by Matthew Barrick, a water taxi operator.

Hogs In Chicago To Have Future

Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP).—Within the next few weeks, the Chicago Livestock Exchange will begin trading in future delivery of hogs.

In announcing this innovation in livestock marketing, Everett C. Brown, president of the Exchange, said the plan was effected to satisfy the demands of producers and possessors of hogs who "wanted some system which would afford them the opportunity to hedge operations and thus reduce risks incidental to price fluctuation and minimize risks incidental to hog ownership."

The Chicago Livestock Exchange, however, will do no trading, merely providing the necessary space and personnel, Brown said. It was also pointed out that the future market will in no way interfere with the present cash market on hogs.

Brown said future trading in hogs "will mark a stride toward the goal of orderly marketing. It will furnish swine raisers the same outlet through future delivery channels, that heretofore has been enjoyed by handlers of other commodities, such as grain, provisions, sugar, butter, eggs, cotton and its by-products."

FIRE IN ART'S REPAIR SHOP ON SHUPELDT ST.

Fire that broke out in C. A. Art's furniture repair shop on Shuveltdt street shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, caused an alarm of fire to be turned in from Box 118. The shop, a frame structure, is located in the rear of Mr. Art's residence on Foxhall avenue, and the fire evidently started in the top of the window casing and went up through the roof. The damage was not heavy.

Take Over Bus Line.

Klom and Huber of Saugerties have taken over the Alsea-Catskill bus line and will run cars to make connection with the Catskill-Albany line.

Look for Big Time Tuesday In Marlborough

There will be a county meeting of the American Legion at Marlborough next Tuesday evening to which all Posts of Ulster county will send large delegations. The Auxiliary will also meet separately on the same night.

The road to Marlborough is reported to be in excellent condition and if no bad weather intervenes a large delegation is expected to go from this city. Commander Finch has promised to provide transportation for all who would like to make the trip. All those wishing transportation are asked to leave their name with Lester Barth, custodian of the American Legion Memorial Building.

Marlborough is still leading the county membership league, with more members already in than they had all last year. Saugerties is second, Kingston third, Ellenville fourth and New Paltz fifth, Phoenix sixth and Highland last. The winning Post will be awarded a handsome membership cup, suitably inscribed.

Membership Chairman Thomas J. Murray, of the local Post, would feel mighty proud to have this cup permanently parked in the local Legion building, and asks all local Legionnaires to pay their dues promptly, and that every member of the Post consider himself a member of the membership committee.

An interesting program has been planned for the meeting Tuesday night. There will be a fine speaker, abundant refreshments, good fellowship and a good time. The comrades in Marlborough are planning a great reception.

Jennings Denies He Has Resigned

At the Same Time It Is Stated That Dr. Kiehl Has Accepted His Resignation and Seeks a Successor.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP).—A successor to Edgar S. Jennings, whose resignation as warden of Auburn State Prison has been accepted, was sought today by Dr. Raymond P. C. Kiehl, commissioner of corrections, reports at the Capitol were to the effect that an experienced man, probably the head of one of the state's several institutions, would be given the job.

Dr. Frank L. Christman, acting warden at Auburn since the riot of December 11 in which nine persons, including the principal keeper, lost their lives, does not care to relinquish his position as superintendent of the Auburn state reformatory, it was learned. His friends believe his stay at Auburn will be over and that Jennings' successor will be appointed within a few days.

Jennings, when told that Dr. Kiehl had accepted his resignation, said he had not resigned. He said he did, however, request to be permitted to retire under the pension law. Friends of the former warden circulated a petition in Auburn asking that Jennings be given a "fair deal" in the matter of obtaining a pension. The petition will urge Governor Roosevelt to continue Jennings in some state post for 15 months in order that he may be pensioned.

Captain Stephen McGrath of the State Troopers was mentioned as a successor to Jennings but it was understood that opposition in some quarters had removed him as a possibility. McGrath led the Troopers in their successful attack on the rioting convicts who last month made Jennings a prisoner and held him and several guards for two or three hours while they bargained for their freedom.

The December riot was the second of the year at Auburn, the first occurring in July. After the last outbreak Colonel George P. Chandler investigated conditions at the prison and in his report to the Governor said, among other things, that higher officers had not backed up guards and that it was a surprise to him that a riot had not broken out sooner.

Jennings, now 58 years old, was appointed warden in February, 1917, and resigned a few months later to enter the Army as colonel of the 108th Regiment. He served in France and won citations and medals from this and other countries. Jennings also served in the Spanish-American War and now has the rank of brigadier general.

He was reappointed to Auburn in April, 1919. Previous to becoming warden, he had served the state in other capacities.

MRS. GANN'S FIRST OFFICIAL VICE-PRESIDENTIAL DINNER.

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP).—For the first time since she became official hostess to her brother, Vice President Curtis, Mrs. Dolly Gann will on Saturday evening, preside at an official vice-presidential dinner party.

Sir Esme Howard, the retiring British Ambassador, who befriend her when the controversy over her social rank was at its highest, will be the guest of honor.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the wife of the speaker of the house, who has been at odds with Mrs. Gann on the question of social precedence, will not be among those present, since custom forbids invitations to those outranking the guest of honor.

Seattle, Jan. 3 (AP).—With two coast guard cutters rushing through heavy seas to her aid, the disabled freighter California today was reported steaming at low speed toward Cape Flattery, Wash. A radio message from the ship said she was in imminent danger of losing a temporary rudder.

A message from the ship last night gave her position as 330 miles off Cape Flattery. The coast guard boats, the Spohomish and the Hilda, could not reach that position until late today.

The ship's steering gear was carried away yesterday by a terrific storm which tossed the north Pacific into mountainous waves. A makeshift rudder was rigged in the midst of the storm, but captain Gregor Johnson radioed he feared it would be torn away.

The ship left the Columbia river December 30, bound for the Orient with a cargo of lumber, mail and manufactured goods. There were 45 men in her crew.

"Purely Political Motives" Among The Governor

Finds These Motives "Obvious" In Statements Made By Senator Knight and Assemblyman Hutchinson. Following Reading of Governor's Message.

Albany, Jan. 3 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt's expression of disappointment over what he termed "purely political motives" of his critics in the Legislature stood today as his answer to charges by these Republican leaders that laxity existed in the Democratic administration of the departments controlling prisons, banks and public works.

"The only obvious thing is that both these statements, in the Senate and in the Assembly, (by Senator John Knight and Assemblyman Levery Hutchinson)," said the governor late yesterday, "were actuated by purely political motives and I am somewhat disappointed that this seems to be the best way of answer to my personal and genuine offer of cooperation yesterday, and my hope that parties would not enter into the two departments of state that ought more than any others to be kept out of politics—the prison department and the banking department."

The statement of Senator Knight, majority leader of the upper house, made after reading of the governor's messages yesterday, contained in one paragraph the substance of the Republican assertions. He said:

"We doubt that there is any parallel to the present situation in the state's history. The bank failures of last winter and spring, the prison riots and the unparliamentary delays in the outgoing program, attended by the knocking overboard in our state institutions—all are the result of a breakdown in administration of these important executive departments."

Senator Knight's suggestion that the state could have used 600 vacant cells at Sing Sing to relieve overcrowding elsewhere in the prison system was met with the statement by the governor that "I would not have agreed to it for the very good reason that the state abandoned them over a year ago because they were tubercular death traps." Use of those cells, he said, would have been "murder."

"The statement of Senator Knight is deliberately unfair when he speaks about new buildings at Auburn Prison, because he knows just as well as I do that before you go ahead with the building program of last year, you have to complete one building in order to empty the old building which has to be torn down. It is a slow process."

The state architect, since 1928, he said, has not only caught up with all the old work he found "way behind," but has brought all the current work absolutely up to date.

If anyone is to blame for the old condition with regard to food and clothing of prisoners, he continued, "it is the Legislature just as much as anybody else. Today we are asking for better food and better clothing and the point is the future and not the past. * * * This is a brand new situation. We have all discovered it and instead of playing politics we ought all to cooperate in remedying it."

"The same thing applies to the banking situation. They have had their banking committees in the Legislature, we have had superintendents of banks, but nobody thought the inspection was inadequate until we had the failure of the City Trust Company (of New York)." The state had no jurisdiction over Clarke Brothers, he said. Presumably, Senator Knight referred to the collapse of these two institutions in his statement.

With the need of more examiners demonstrated, he continued, "Why play politics with them?"

Returning to the prison situation, he pointed out that the Republican leaders, after the Dannemora and Auburn riots, gave personal opinions of the causes without "playing politics," which was true; insufficient guards, which was true; insufficient food, which was true, and it was not until they met here and decided to play politics, jointly and collectively, that they brought politics into the situation."

COAST GUARD CUTTERS RUSH TO AID DISABLED FREIGHTER.

Seattle, Jan. 3 (AP).—With two coast guard cutters rushing through heavy seas to her aid, the disabled freighter California today was reported steaming at low speed toward Cape Flattery, Wash. A radio message from the ship said she was in imminent danger of losing a temporary rudder.

Kingston Headquarters For New Phone District

W. W. Doolittle is New District Manager—

Past Growth and Anticipated Future Development Reason for Establishing District—

Nelson Continues as Manager of Kingston Office.

The New York Telephone Company has created a new district organization, with headquarters at Kingston, according to an announcement made today by W. W. Doolittle, who is the new district manager. The new district will embrace, besides Kingston, the towns of Catskill, Cairo, Durham, Esopus, Fleischmanns, Haines Falls, High Falls, Hunter, Jewett, Lexington, Oak Hill, Pakenburg, Phoenixville, Pine Hill, Platt Cove, Potters Hollow, Prattsville, Preston Hollow, Rosendale, Saugerties, Shokan, Tannersville, Ulster Park, Windham and Woodstock.

Past growth and anticipated future development were assigned by Mr. Doolittle as the reason for establishing the new district. He pointed out that Kingston has enjoyed a steady increase in the number of telephones in use in the city and that these telephones are being used more intensively all the time. Another factor in the decision to establish the Kingston district is the growing importance of the country around this city as a summer resort bringing with it many special problems. It is felt that closer supervision and more intimate administration, made possible by the establishment of the district office, will be helpful in meeting the increasing problems.

Mr. Doolittle, the new district manager, comes to Kingston from Albany where he was a member of the staff of the General Sales Manager. Prior to that, he was Manager of the Binghamton office of the telephone company and he brings to his new position a long experience in telephone matters.

C. W. Grooman has been appointed district plant superintendent and will have charge of the building and maintenance of the extensive telephone plant in this area. He also comes from Albany where he was on the staff of the General Plant Supervisor.

G. F. McGuire, district traffic superintendent, also comes from Albany. In his new position, he will have general supervision over the central offices in the district.

A. R. Nelson will continue as manager at Kingston, reporting to the district manager.

COAST GUARD KILLINGS DENOUNCED IN FANEUIL HALL.

Boston, Jan. 3 (AP).—Destruction of Coast Guard recruiting posters on Boston Common followed a meeting in historic Faneuil Hall yesterday protesting the killing of three run-runners in Rhode Island waters early Sunday by Coast Guardsmen.

Excited youths led the demonstration and G. W. Briggs, petty officer in charge, was unable to stop them and was driven away. Posters were torn from their metal standards, torn and trampled, and the standards bent and broken. The outbreak ended quickly with no arrests.

Coast Guard division headquarters declined to comment later but C. A. Picken, head of recruiting, said that new posters would be placed on the Common tomorrow.

Speakers at the meeting denounced the shooting of the run-runners as the "Newport massacre," charging the Coast Guard with cold blooded killing, and declared that the enforcement of prohibition has led the nation into a new form of oppression. The audience unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon President Hoover for an impartial investigation.

GUNMEN KILL GIRL AND MOTHER BY MISTAKE.

Rochester, Jan. 3 (AP).—Hidden gunmen last night, waiting police believe, to kill James Infante, 47, and his son, Charles, 27, poured bullets instead into the bodies of Eleanor Infante, 15, and her mother, Salvatrice, 43, killing the daughter and probably fatally wounding the mother when the family alighted from an automobile in the dark yard of their home. The killers escaped.

The fusillade missed the man. Another daughter, Philippa, 12, also was untouched by the bullets.

Police said the killing was the reopening of a bootleg feud of several years standing. Today the father and brother were being questioned in an effort to learn the identity of the gunmen, who had hid themselves in the rear of the home.

HARVEY DAVIS, REPORTED "LOST," WAS AT HOME.

Thursday the police department was asked to assist in a search for Harvey Davis of the Sand road, R. F. D. No. 2, who was reported missing from home. That night the police department received word that Mr. Davis was not missing but was at home.

One of the Best Loved Buildings In Old London

Will Be The Scene of The Coming Naval Disarmament Conference—History of St. James Palace Has Been One of Peace.

London, Jan. 3 (AP).—Quiet old St. James Palace, which will be the meeting place for the coming naval disarmament conference, is one of the best loved buildings in old London.

The history of St. James is one of peace. For all its ornate details and the red-coated guards that all day long pace up and down before it, it has never known shot and shell.

The palace became the official royal residence in 1698, after the burning of the palace of Whitehall. Queen Anne and all the Georges lived in it, and it was the principal home of William IV. Since then the official residence of the royal family has been Buckingham Palace, but the British court is still officially "the Court of St. James" and the royal levees are still held in the older building.

The sixteenth century gate-house (the section of the palace which is seen looking down St. James' street) is its most architectural feature. The range of rooms to the west of it form the "Home," the London home of the Prince of Wales, which is now regarded as forming a separate building.

There is a fine range of state apartments.

The banquetting room or state room in which the plenary sessions of the conference will be held in a long, low chamber of dignified appearance, the walls of which are lined with royal portraits. It is none too large for its intended purpose, and the activities of the conference will certainly overflow into the drawing room, Queen Anne's drawing room and the throne room—the last of which is a particularly sumptuous apartment with a great white marble chimney piece and carvings by England's greatest wood-carver, Grinling Gibbons.

At least three big international conferences, including the meeting of the council of the League of Nations in 1920, have been held at the palace and many gatherings of lesser importance have met within its walls.

Fishing Superstitions
Some Scottish fishermen will not go to sea if a lame man crosses their path, and in the neighborhood of Aberdeen it is considered unlucky to meet a red-haired or flat-footed person. If Fifth of Firth fishermen meet a bare-footed woman with that feet where they are going to sea they are sure of having had luck on that day, and prefer to stay at home.

New Envoy to Germany is Quiet Briar-Pipe Fan

By REID MONFORT
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Washington (AP).—A quiet, successful business man has been nominated as America's next ambassador to Germany.

He is Senator Frederic M. Sackett of Kentucky, transplanted native son of Rhode Island, whose name has been sent to the Senate for confirmation by President Hoover. He likes briar pipes, big cigars, the feel of a driver against a golf ball, boating and bowling.

Of medium height, Senator Sackett has serious gray eyes and brown hair which shows little silver despite his 61 years.

Reserved of manner, he always dresses conservatively, almost invariably wearing a dark suit. In fact, he is so wedded to dark clothes that his arrival at the office in the summer occasionally garbed in pongee is an occasion for comment among his co-workers.

Driving his automobile around Washington affords him a great "kick". He likes to bowl but would just as soon play golf, and his companions say he is proficient in both sports. Wherever he is he generally has a briar pipe along, and sees to it that his home and office have an equal distribution of them even if he has to move three or four to bring this about.

Senator and Mrs. Sackett, who have no children, have traveled extensively, making trips abroad nearly every year for many years. They often have been to Germany.

The son of a wealthy Rhode Island woolen manufacturer, Senator Sackett was educated at Brown University and Harvard law school. He entered the coal business in Louisville directly after his collegiate days.

FREDERIC M. SACKETT.

Aside from being a member of the Kentucky state board of charities for four years and a Federal food administrator two years, Senator Sackett never held public office until elected to the United States Senate four years ago.

His laconic comment on that race was, "I ran and won".

Although no orator in the popular sense, he always has come to the Senate floor armed with facts, and his friends think well of his legislative accomplishments.

THEATRE CROWD IMPERILED WHEN FOOL CRIES FIRE

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 3 (AP).—Two hundred persons, many of them children, rushed from the Franco Theatre yesterday when a young man shouted "Fire" as he ran down the stairs from the balcony to the street. All reached the street in safety despite the crush to the doors. They returned to the theatre when they learned the alarm was a false one.

Recalling the Paisley, Scotland, New Year's eve tragedy, the theatre authorities said every effort would be made to arrest the man who shouted the alarm.

Crystals Accents Sponsored in New Necklaces.

(Copyright, 1930, Fairchild.)

Novelty necklaces are of great importance at the moment. The three strand idea is very well liked, as in the necklace at the left which is of sultan pearls with modernistic crystal clasp.

The choker below alternates large pearls with beads of silver set in and tiny rondels of marcasite. The third necklace combines tiny rondels of white china with smaller heads set in squares of dull glass, the smaller beads being a deep beige tone, the two larger beads also being in this tone.

SLEEVES BECOME PUFFED UP WITH THEIR OWN IMPORTANCE

New York—There has been enough publicity accorded the "Sunday frock" to establish it as indispensable to the average woman. There is little distinction between it and the late afternoon frock for both have long, and usually interesting sleeves. We have been suspicious of sleeves for some time. They have been entirely too settled in their ways. When it became necessary to omit them, to attain variety, designers just pitched into the problem of making sleeves highly individual and distinctive. In consequence they are quite puffed up over the attention they are receiving. That they have expanded below the elbow rather than above is something for which most of us are devoutly grateful. It rather looks as though sleeves, that did not swell out with their own importance—and a bit of material—would be cut down for their disobedience to fashion laws, for already there are rumors of short sleeves again which is something of a change, and delight to many. At all events it begins to look as though the long, straight sleeve was about to be elbowed out of sight.

There has been more than a little controversy of the merit of the taffeta frock for other than evening wear. Advance collections give it a place of honor, and are inclined to advocate the substitution of coarse net, or novelty lace for chiffons and flat crepes. Gowns of the Sunday night genre are conservative in line, especially neckline.

Brown silk net in a fine mesh is the medium for this Sunday night frock with the informal neckline. The extreme sleeve fullness is gathered into a tight band at the wrist. The dipping circular skirt is joined to the long bodice with intricate seaming.

Treatment of the waistline in back is a stern test of good style just now. Miranda, like many others, blouses the corse over a belted normal waistline. The dress is crepe de chine.

Calumet's Double-Action has come to town to help you with all your baking

MAKE THIS TEST—See for yourself how Calumet Baking Powder acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny, fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that takes place in your mixing bowl.

After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment, a second rising will start and continue until the mixture rises to the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that takes place in your oven. Make this test today. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure.

IF YOU want to know why Calumet has become the most popular baking powder in the world—make the double-action test.

Double-Action. Here it is. Two risings, not merely one. Calumet's way of making cakes high and fluffy—biscuits light and flaky. Women all over town are proving this to be true.

The first action of Calumet takes place in the mixing bowl. Then in the oven a second action swells through the batter and makes your cake rise perfectly—even though you may not be able to regulate your oven temperature accurately.

All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action. Not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Calumet is scientifically made of exactly the right ingredients, in exactly the right proportions to produce perfect leavening action—Double-Action—your assurance of baking success.

Make some hot biscuits or cake today. Use only one level teaspoon of Calumet to a cup of sifted flour—the usual Calumet proportion for best results. A real economy. Notice Calumet comes in full-sized one pound cans.

GOTHAM FAKERS REAP HARVEST

All Classes Bilked by Swindlers in Guise of Fortune Tellers.

New York.—It's this time of year that the fortune tellers come back from playing the tank town carnivals and sideshows and prepare to reap a winter harvest from those most gullible of creatures—real New Yorkers. Which led Chief Magistrate McAdoo to lean down from his bench a short time ago and issue a more dire than usual warning.

The chief magistrate phrased it nicely, adjuring "all confiding and credulous men and women" to avoid swindlers in the guise of seers, astrologers, and spiritualists. The fakers reap among all classes of New York society, but especially do they harvest among the lower middle classes and glean their life savings.

Magistrate McAdoo cited several instances of the sucker season thus far, among them the prize stories of the "seven black curses" and the Brooklyn political boss who sprinkled good luck powder on the meeting room floor.

It was from the dapper and dramatic Alfred Byrne, the chief magistrate's secretary, that interesting amplification of these stories came. Mr. Byrne collected the statistics on which his chief based his warning, and, being a good raconteur, retold them.

The Seven Black Curses.
"The scene of the 'seven black curses' was in Ridgewood Queens. The characters included a hard-headed German woman who married an Irishman and opened a restaurant; the fortune teller lady; the Irish husband, and an honest, non-superstitious policeman. Business had not been so good in the restaurant.

"So," said Mr. Byrne, "this lady went to the fortune teller. This gypsy looked her over, told her a few nice things that were going to happen to her, and said come back in a few days. And the woman went back—hard-headed German woman, too.

"So now the fortune teller shuffled up a deck of cards and began dealing them out. She dealt out seven—all black. 'My heavens!' she said to the restaurant woman. 'You see that! All black! Ace, king, queen, jack—all black. It's the seven black curses! May heaven pity you, my good woman!'

"You can imagine how this woman felt by now. She pleaded with the fortune teller to do something for her. The fortune teller just shook her head sadly. 'It's no use,' she said. 'You see the cards dealt out there? Seven of them—all black. The seven black curses. There's nothing I can do for you but pity you.'

Piling on the Horrors.
"So she ushered the poor woman out of her place, terrified, knowing well that she would come back. In day or two back she came. She was in tears. 'You've got to help me. The seven black curses.'

"The fortune teller got out her crystal ball and looked in it and said 'Each one of those black curses is seven years of bad luck. You've got a business, ain't you?' 'Yes,' said the woman. 'Restaurant—business.' 'I thought so,' said the fortune teller. 'Well, your business will be ruined. And you've got a husband, ain't you?' And the poor woman said yes, she had a husband. 'Well,' said the fortune teller, 'he will run away from you. And you've got some children, ain't you?' And the woman said yes, she had a son. 'He will be run over by a truck,' said the fortune teller, 'and be burned up.'

"By this time the poor woman was almost out of her head and crying for the fortune teller to take the seven black curses off her. So finally the gypsy said, 'Wait a minute,' and reached behind her for a telephone. She pretended like she was talking to some one on the wire.

"Ten dollars a year for the curses?" she said, like she was arguing with the person at the other end of the line. 'Why, that would be seven times seventy—$490. No, that's too much. This woman is a poor woman. What? You'll do it for $400? All right, I'll tell her.'

Irish Husband to Rescue
"So the fortune teller told the woman: 'For $400 he will take off the seven black curses, and that's cheap. Now, you come back tomorrow with the $400 and we'll take off the curses.' And the poor woman went home still more terrified, for she had only $150 in the bank.

"Well, her good Irish husband noticed how worried she had been for the last several days, and he finally worried it out of her. He didn't take any stock in the fortune teller or her seven black curses, either, and he went right out and told a cop.

"That's the way we got all these cases—the people that are gyped tell the cop on the beat, and then we have to arrest them on warrants. We can't touch the fortune tellers except when people complain, and then it's too late to save the poor people's money.

"The next day the restaurant woman went back to the fortune teller with her $150, and along with her she took Mary Sullivan, the policeman's wife. Mary waited in the anteroom and the woman went in.

Fortune Teller Takes Air.
"Well," said the fortune teller, 'did you bring the $400? The woman said no; all she had in the world was $150, and wouldn't the fortune teller please take it and remove the seven curses? The fortune teller said no, she would not. Then she asked who it was the woman had brought with her, and she said one of her waitresses.

"Well," said the fortune teller, 'waitresses make good money, and maybe she'll loan you some to make up the $400. Go bring her in.'

"But when the fortune teller caught sight of the policeman's wife ducked out of the back door and slammed it.

we had to get a warrant to make the arrest."

Mr. Byrne said the fortune teller has been on "ball out" in Ridgewood for trial on a disorderly conduct charge, the only one which can be made when no money changes hands. Then he went on to tell about the Brooklyn politician and the good luck powders. He came all the way over to the chief magistrate's office to make his complaint—realizing after a while that he had been played for a sucker.

Was Precinct Captain.

"This fellow is captain of an election district—no, I won't tell you which party," began Byrne, "and there is a lady captain in the same district. The captain's wife went to a fortune teller who told her that her husband and the lady captain were a little closer than just being political friends, and the husband went hot footed to the fortune teller to jump on her for saying such things. That's the way, he said, that he came to go there in the first place.

"He got to talking with the fortune teller, he said, and she told him about this powder that would bring good luck when you sprinkled it around. He got to believing it, I guess, and paid her $5 for a little can of it.

"He was kind of embarrassed telling me all this, and I was embarrassed asking him if he actually fell for the bunk. So I put it easily: 'And did you use any of the powder?' and he said yes, sheepishly.

"She had told him if he sprinkled it around in the meeting room the ticket would sure be elected, and he did. But when he got to thinking it over he realized what a sucker he'd been played for, so over he came. We got out a warrant and arrested the woman."

Judge Issues Warning.

Mr. Byrne could have gone on all the rest of the day telling such stories, but these illustrate the point. In person and from his secretary the chief magistrate had heard enough to warrant his warning.

"Not," said Mr. Byrne, "that it will do much good, though. I'm afraid it won't. These poor people who fall for fortune tellers and the fake spiritualists (these latter are the ones that trim the what you might say upper classes), won't listen to any warnings. They just say all we unbelievers are just too prejudiced and dumb to understand it."

The height of imagination, or something, was reached by a young girl in our neighborhood who became very indignant because a friend slapped her on her sun-burn powdered back.

An archeologist says carrying pitchers on the head gave Egyptian women a fine carriage, and the reaction of the young lady who doesn't retain is that she wouldn't do it for a fine limousine.

A steak has been hanging in front of a butcher shop in Sheffield, England, for 99 years, and that strikes us as a rather poor advertisement for a city that is famous for its cutlery and sharp knives.

we had to get a warrant to make the arrest."

we had to get a warrant to make the arrest."

Mr. Byrne said the fortune teller has been on "ball out" in Ridgewood for trial on a disorderly conduct charge, the only one which can be made when no money changes hands. Then he went on to tell about the Brooklyn politician and the good luck powders. He came all the way over to the chief magistrate's office to make his complaint—realizing after a while that he had been played for a sucker.

"This fellow is captain of an election district—no, I won't tell you which party," began Byrne, "and there is a lady captain in the same district. The captain's wife went to a fortune teller who told her that her husband and the lady captain were a little closer than just being political friends, and the husband went hot footed to the fortune teller to jump on her for saying such things. That's the way, he said, that he came to go there in the first place.

"He got to talking with the fortune teller, he said, and she told him about this powder that would bring good luck when you sprinkled it around. He got to believing it, I guess, and paid her $5 for a little can of it.

"He was kind of embarrassed telling me all this, and I was embarrassed asking him if he actually fell for the bunk. So I put it easily: 'And did you use any of the powder?' and he said yes, sheepishly.

"She had told him if he sprinkled it around in the meeting room the ticket would sure be elected, and he did. But when he got to thinking it over he realized what a sucker he'd been played for, so over he came. We got out a warrant and arrested the woman."

Judge Issues Warning.

Mr. Byrne could have gone on all the rest of the day telling such stories, but these illustrate the point. In person and from his secretary the chief magistrate had heard enough to warrant his warning.

"Not," said Mr. Byrne, "that it will do much good, though. I'm afraid it won't. These poor people who fall for fortune tellers and the fake spiritualists (these latter are the ones that trim the what you might say upper classes), won't listen to any warnings. They just say all we unbelievers are just too prejudiced and dumb to understand it."

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By the Associated Press.)

Menominee, Mich.—Found, a use for Christmas trees that have served their main purpose. Merchants here are collecting them in order to mark an ice road from Menominee to Dorr county, Wis., on the other side of Green Bay.

Shrewsbury, N. J.—With the help of ice cream a 161-year-old tree has been saved from destruction. Several women entertained three workmen on a warm day and induced them to use spoons instead of axes. Meanwhile their husbands used oratory on the town fathers.

New York—One of the current sensations of society is the visit of Lady Ribblesdale, the former Mrs. John Jacob Astor (Ava Willing). To veteran society commentators she does not seem to have changed a whit since she was regarded as the most beautiful woman in American society. It so happened that she and her successor as Mrs. John Jacob Astor, the former Madeleine Force, now Mrs. William K. Dick, lunched at the same time at the Colony Club, but at different tables. There was no sign of recognition.

London.—H. Wickham Steed wonders if Stanley Baldwin would have had as successful a visit to the United States as did Ramsay MacDonald. The reason for his curiosity, he told the Modern Language Association in a presidential address, is that Mr. Baldwin has a trace of an accent that might have aroused resentment.

Marlinsburg, W. Va.—Struck by a snowball between the eyes, Frank Hartley, 20, is dead. Three days after he was hit he became unconscious. He died one day after reaching a hospital.

Calgary, Alberta.—L. F. Clarry is a king's councillor and the game was in chambers at the court house, so it must have been genuine. He held all the spades in a game of contract.

Wadsworth, N. C.—Mrs. Mary Bennett Little has a plan for organizing the school children of the nation into a "Keepplaws League." The first chapter has been formed here.

Chicago—Isabel McPhail, 4, orphaned in Seattle, is on the way to Springfield, Scotland, to live with an aunt. She travels alone except for a rag doll.

Washington—Lieutenant D. D. Graves, U. S. A., has fallen more than two miles unconscious and lived to tell about it. In a test at Rockwell Field, Cal., 25,000 feet up, a fitting on the oxygen tank of his plane gave way. The plane went into a tailspin. After it had descended 12,000 feet Graves came to, got the ship under control and landed safely.

New Orleans—Joe Chatoney knows how to handle visiting gunmen. A fellow hailed Joe's taxi, pressed a pistol at his back and told him to keep on driving. Joe obeyed, but he had a hunch the fellow was a stranger in town. Joe kept stepping on the gas until he came to a police station. The passenger, one James Wilson, was easily captured. He said he came from a North Carolina hogsgow.

WILL FREE 6,000 PRISONERS WHEN CROWN PRINCE WEDS

Rome, Jan. 3 (AP).—Six thousand Italian prisoners will be released when Princess Marie Jose of Belgium marries Humbert, Prince of Piedmont, here January 5.

An amnesty proclamation issued by King Victor Emmanuel in connection with the wedding provides liberation for prisoners serving sentences of a year or less for civil and military offences, and for failure to pay fines.

In case of sentences in excess of a year, one year is remitted for civilians and two years for soldiers. Punishments inflicted on soldiers for violation of discipline are also lifted, except in cases of unworthy elements.

In all, including remission of fines, it was expected as many as 300,000 persons will benefit by the amnesty. Criminals with bad records and criminals considered especially dangerous are excluded from the benefits of the king's action.

Gloves Long Worn
 The origin of the glove dates back to antiquity, since they were known in prehistoric times to the cave dwellers, says Pathfinder Magazine. The ancient Persians wore them and the Greeks appropriated the custom from them. Mittens are among the dress accessories found with mummies of priestesses dating from the twenty-first dynasty of Egypt. They were of the same material as the upper garment.

January Meeting Of the D. A. R.

The January meeting of Willwyck Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the chapter house on Thursday afternoon and was well attended. One new member, Mrs. John Robinson, was received into the chapter. Those present were reminded that January 27 was the date of the next naturalization court, when all D. A. R. members are asked to be in attendance if possible to greet the new citizens.

A letter was received from Colonel Dordman of Castle Point Veterans' Hospital, thanking the chapter for the contribution of $125 for funds to enable such of the men as were able to go home for the Christmas holidays.

Announcement was made of the concert to be given for the chapter by the Amphion Glee Club of Newburgh, Robert Williams, conductor, on February 12, in the chapel of the First Reformed Church. Mrs. Van Buren, who has the matter in charge, stated that tickets are now ready for sale and may be secured from chapter members.

It was reported that the holiday luncheon at the chapter house was a very pretty affair and a social success. Two delegates for the Continental Congress to be held in Washington in April were chosen at this meeting, Mrs. G. N. Wood and Mrs. C. Wright Divine of Ellenville, with Mrs. G. N. Wood, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Mrs.

Hoornbeek of Ellenville and Mrs. M. Conklin as alternates. The hostesses for the social hour when refreshments were served from the handsomely appointed tea table, were Mrs. Harriet Bonesteel and Mrs. Charles Tappen.

Among the good intentions that would make first-rate persons, we should imagine, are the little woman's experiments with nut bread.

The first three days of flagpole-stirling we would be inclined to attribute to absent-mindedness. After that we can only think that it is deliberate.

NEW ORLEANS PATROLMEN ORDERED TO SHOOT TO KILL

New Orleans, Jan. 3 (AP).—Nearly a hundred heavily armed officers under orders to "shoot to kill if necessary" patrolled the streets of New Orleans today after the dynamiting of two street cars Wednesday night had brought to 64 the number of trolleys blown up since the beginning of a carmen's strike last summer.

Shortly after last midnight authorities said the night had been quiet and reported no arrests. Superintendent of Police Thomas A. Ray, who yesterday placed all available patrolmen on guard duty, also has instructed officers to charge any suspects taken into custody with violating an old state law which provides the death penalty for bombing.

Superintendent Ray said he believed that "jitney" operators were "directly or indirectly responsible" for the persistent dynamiting of street cars.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Stock prices continued to fluctuate within a rather narrow trading area today, with neither the bull nor the bear operators apparently able to gain any decided advantage. The market appeared to lack leadership, operators for the rise finding it difficult to attract an outside following while speculators for the decline hesitated about selling a dull market. Sales in the first two hours were less than 500,000 shares, as against nearly 1,350,000 in the same period yesterday.

Call money dropped from 6 to 5 per cent, indicating passing of the year-end currency demands and the return flow of funds to the banks, and an easier undertone was apparent in other monetary markets. No change was made in the Chicago Federal Reserve rediscount rate of 4 1/2 per cent.

The increase of $96,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans was somewhat larger than expected, and tended to chill bullish enthusiasm. To date there has been little evidence of a pronounced January investment demand, despite the fact that more than one billion dollars in dividends and interest is being distributed this month.

The erratic course of prices is illustrated by the movement on Fox Film A, which closed yesterday at 17 1/2, opened today at 17, rallied to 18 1/2, broke to a new low at 16 1/2 and then rallied to 20 1/2. United States Steel Common moved up to 169, dropped back to 166 1/2 and then rallied above 168.

Colorado fuel, in which a change of control is unofficially reported to be pending, ran up 4 points. General American Tank and Pullman, which are rumored to be engaged in merger discussions, each rallied about 2 points. Baldwin Locomotive, which began the year with more than $30,000,000 of business on its books, or about five times that of last year, also was in brisk demand.

Public Utilities were turned over in fairly large volume, with American Water Works, American and Foreign Power and Consolidated Gas in the forefront of the advance. American Bank Note, American Can, Gillette Safety Razor, Johns Manville, and General Electric also received fairly good support.

Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward sold within 3 points of the lows established in the November break.

Wortman, senior vice commander; F. Van Steenburgh, junior vice commander; Joseph Mitchell, chaplain; Julian Reid, quartermaster; George Schick, trustee for 6 months; Chris Roach, trustee for 12 months; Peter J. Tickets for the Veterans' Vanities of 1930, which are to be staged in Kingston high school auditorium on Monday and Tuesday evenings, February 19 and 20, were given to members.

The present demand for tickets is so great that the Vanities will be successful financially, while Bernard V. Roach, chairman of the entertainment committee, has a program that he promises will please all who attend.

Joyce-Schirick Post will hold a card party in the Dugout on Monday evening, February 13. The public is invited to attend. A good time is promised.

MYSTERY IN BALTIMORE ASSAULT AND MURDER.

Baltimore, Jan. 3 (AP).—Reuben Heyman, 24, was shot to death last night on a lonely road outside the city and a patrolman found his companion, Mrs. Dorothy Burgess, 24, sitting on a curbstone in the city early today clobbering that she had been attacked by a negro with a cork foot who killed Heyman.

First word of the shooting was a telephone call by Mrs. Burgess to Heyman's parents, saying he had been killed. But she was so hysterical they could not understand her message and notified police headquarters. When the young woman was found, her story directed searchers to the spot where Heyman's body lay, with his automobile in a ditch about 100 feet away.

Mrs. Burgess told police she and Heyman were sitting in his parked automobile near Druid Hill reservoir when the negro approached with a pistol and forced him to drive to the road where Heyman's body and automobile were found. Her assailant refused offers of money, she said, and when the youth and woman both tried to fight him off, Heyman was killed. After the assault, she told police, the negro took some poison tablets which made him sick and then wandered away. Police found the empty poison bottle in the automobile.

The woman walked for a while, then got a lift from motorists coming into the city but did not tell them of the attack, according to the police report of her story. Efforts to establish the time of the attack and question the young woman on her details were futile because of her hysterical condition. She was quieted with drugs and allowed to rest.

One of the circumstances puzzling the police was discovery that Heyman had two bullet wounds in the breast, but only one hole showed through his overcoat and jacket.

WITNESSES AGAINST STUDY CLUB PROPRIETOR DISAPPEAR

Detroit, Jan. 3 (AP).—The disappearance of three state witnesses in the trial of Martin Cohn, proprietor of the study club, on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the fire and panic there September 20, was revealed by Duncan C. McGregor, assistant prosecutor, today.

The three were employees of the cabaret when the fire broke out in the building, resulting in the deaths of 23 persons. Two of the missing witnesses, Peter Simons, a bus boy, and Louis Kanta, a sandwich maker, are known to have left the city. The third, Louis Blomfield, assistant manager of the club, is believed to be hiding in Detroit.

FIRST ARREST OF 1930 ON CHARGE OF SPEEDING.

Arthur J. Kelly of Elizabeth, N. J., was the first motorist to be arrested this year on a charge of speeding in Kingston. He was picked up on Broadway on Thursday, charged with speeding 35 miles an hour. He furnished $20 cash bail for his appearance in police court later.

FERRY AND TUGBOAT CRASH IN FOG

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Running blindly in a dense fog which threw her two miles off her course, the ferryboat William H. Hearst crashed into the tugboat Mutual today at Beards dry dock, Brooklyn, throwing 18 men into the water and injuring four of them seriously.

The tugboat, which was tied up at the breakwater, sank shortly after the collision. Captain Harry Bass and the seven members of the crew of the Mutual were thrown overboard by the force of the impact and 10 dry dock employes, standing on the breakwater, were tossed into the water.

Several other tugs which had tied up at the breakwater in the fog rescued all of the men.

The damage to the ferry, which had 160 passengers aboard, was only slight, and it proceeded to a Brooklyn dock.

Four of the rescued men were taken to the Long Island College Hospital, where they were reported in a serious condition.

Visibility was said to have been only 20 feet in that part of the harbor.

MARRIED SIX YEARS AND STILL HAPPY

Ponca City, Okla., Jan. 3 (AP).—There is a Santa Claus, the institution of marriage still is sound, and all's right with the world. The Rev. Percy H. Nickless stands witness.

Dr. Nickless just has received his sixth Christmas check from a Michigan man whom he wedded to a Ponca City girl. The wedding occurred six years ago and the bridegroom made the customary payment at the time.

Dr. Nickless said. But so well pleased was he with the state into which the minister ushered him that on each Christmas since he has sent a substantial check to the Ponca City pastor.

The name of the satisfied benedict Dr. Nickless refused to reveal.

Entrott is Vice President.

Officer Winfield Entrott was elected vice president at the meeting of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association at the city hall Thursday evening, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Officer Roedell.

Odd German Timepiece

One of the most unusual of the world's time-tellers is in Stettin, Germany. It has a large and terrifying face of a bearded man in the center of the dial, who every second rolls his eyes from side to side in the manner of the mythical boggy man. In his mouth he holds a metal plate telling the day of the month, making in all a grotesque picture. It bears the inscription of 1730.

To Enjoy Human Nature

The wisest as well as the most generous form of humanity is that which is ready to accept people much as they are. It never has a watchful eye on their education. Rather it watches to see what amusing characteristic or lovable quality it may discover and admire. It gives ample elbow room for all the differences which make human nature the baffling, interesting and inspiring thing it is.—Exchange.

"Rabbit" and "Hare"

The word rabbit was used to describe a species that differ from the larger hare which make only forms (technical name for nests or places in the ground) when in grass and other cover, but do not burrow. In the United States the word rabbit has been applied to all animals of this group, and the word hare is scarcely in common use.

Mellon Upholds Coast Guard A Major Problem

Acting Within Their Instructions and Observing Their Duty in Black Duck Case.

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP).—Secretary Mellon today asserted that the Coast Guard had done nothing that was not justified and authorized under the law in firing on the liquor smuggling boat, Black Duck, where resulted in the death of three men.

Mr. Mellon's statement was in line with those previously made by Rear Admiral Billard, Coast Guard commandant, and Assistant Secretary Lowman, both of whom defended the Coast Guard.

The secretary of the Treasury said that much as the shooting was regretted, reports to him indicated the Coast Guard was acting "entirely within their instructions and observing their duty in what they did."

"They gave warning, the boat was endeavoring to escape and they could not do less than they did," he added. The secretary, who returned to Washington today from a sea trip in the Coast Guard cutter, said the Coast Guard had information smugglers were attempting to run liquor into the United States and concentrated Coast Guard boats in that vicinity.

The Black Duck, he said, was near the coast off Newport. "The Coast Guard," Mr. Mellon said, "is authorized under the law to use force to stop boats. If they could not stop them they could not carry out their instructions. They give warning and pursue and if a boat does not stop it is necessary to use force. In these cases the men were violators of the law. They were smuggling liquor and it was the Coast Guard's duty to capture them."

PRINCE WILL USE AIRPLANE IN AFRICAN TRIP

London, Jan. 3 (AP).—The Prince of Wales probably will use an airplane to cover at least part of the territory on his African hunting trip, which may take him over ten thousand miles of Central Africa territory, including considerable jungle country.

The Prince will board the liner Keillworth Castle at Southampton today for the voyage to Capetown, from where his African trip, interrupted last year by the serious illness of his father, will begin.

A half dozen automobiles will be provided for his use in Africa but it was feared recent rains will have made so many jungle tracks impassable that he will have to fly to Dodoma, Central Tanganyika, where he abandoned his tour last year. It is from Dodoma he actually will begin his new trip.

Memorial.
In memory of George Hornbeck, who departed his life just one year ago today.
Just a year ago today,
God called you away,
To that beautiful better land
Where sorrow never comes
And no tears ever shed.
You are happy, my boy,
Though you are dead.
Gone but not forgotten.
(Signed) BROKENHEARTED MOTHER AND FATHER, MR. AND MRS. E. HORNBECK.

In Memoriam.
In sad and loving memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, George Hornbeck, who departed this life suddenly one year ago today, January 3, 1929.

One year has passed since that sad day
When the one we loved was called away.
The blow was great, the shock severe.
We little thought his death so near.
We never knew what pains he had,
We did not see him die.
We only know he passed away
And never said goodbye.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory left behind.
Only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
Gone never to be forgotten.

Court Congestion A Major Problem

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP).—Attorney General Mitchell today termed congestion in the courts a major problem in the enforcement of the laws, including the prohibition laws.

Writing to Chairman Capper, of the Senate committee having jurisdiction over affairs of the District of Columbia, Mr. Mitchell said too much emphasis could not be placed on such congestion. He recommended the appointment of two additional judges here. He added that the District was "not the only place where such conditions exist."

All of the agencies of law enforcement, he continued, including detection, judicial procedure and the prison system, must be adequate. "If any one of them is overloaded and clogged," he said, "it slows down the other. The United States attorneys charged with the duty of prosecuting the cases in court cannot be effective if the courts are not able properly to dispose of the cases."

The letter was written in answer to a request by Capper asking for suggestions for legislation to aid in administering the laws in Washington and to improve law enforcement.

WILL STUDY QUESTION OF TESTIMONY BY ALIENISTS

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Declaring the present method of testimony by alienists in murder cases to be "highly unsatisfactory" from both the point of view of the courts and the dignity of the medical profession, the New York Academy of Medicine has appointed a committee to study the question.

The academy in its annual report contended there was need of "a satisfactory definition of murder in the first and second degree and manslaughter." The committee was ordered to make recommendations in regard to the legal definition of insanity, the disposition of those convicted of criminal offenses and on the question of expert testimony when there is a psychiatric problem involved.

The report also denounced overcharging of patients with small means and advocated a close study of the medical personnel of hospitals.

FAY PENALTY FOR MURDER OF BUFFALO POLICEMAN

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP).—Two gunmen were put to death in the electric chair in Sing Sing prison last night for the murder of a Buffalo policeman.

They were Arthur Brown, 34 years old, and Frank Kowalski, 25, who with John Schlager were convicted of killing Patrolman Harold Hoffman when he surprised them attempting to break into the plant of the Swift Packing Company on the night of December 22, 1928. They were given a joint trial.

Schlager, who was tried separately, is under sentence to die January 10. Because he is credited with giving information which aided in the conviction of the others, he hopes for executive clemency.

After eating elaborate meals of their own choosing, Brown and Kowalski bade goodbye to eleven other condemned men in the death house but refused to meet Schlager, whom they accused of double crossing them.

THREE AWAIT DEATH WITH INDIFFERENCE

San Francisco, Jan. 3 (AP).—With singular indifference three men awaited execution in California prisons today. All three refused the services of clergymen and indicated they were ready to die.

Probably the calmest of the three was Louis Lazarus, Oakland bank robber, who has been accorded the dubious title of the coolest man ever to occupy the much-used death cell in San Quentin.

Anthony Brown and Roy E. Stokes, two of the ringleaders in the riot in Folsom prison on Thanksgiving day, 1927—an uprising which cost the lives of eleven men—were resigned to their fate on the gallows there.

DEATH OF VETERAN UPSTATE NEWSPAPERMAN

Oswego, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP).—Clark Morrison, Sr., president of the Palladium-Times, Inc., and one of upstate New York's best known and oldest active newspapermen, died at his home here this morning, aged 90 years. He was to be found in his office daily up to three weeks ago.

Mr. Morrison was born December 12, 1839, at Geneva, where he began his newspaper career as a printer. He came to Oswego to work for the old Palladium in 1864, became part owner of that paper six years later and was its publisher until it was merged with the Times in 1929. Since then he had been head of the new corporation.

He was prominent Democrat and served two terms as mayor of Oswego.

Survivors are the widow; a son, Clark Morrison, Jr., also associated with the Palladium-Times; a daughter, Mrs. Adelaide Roby of New York, and a sister, Mrs. Adelaide Spoor of New Jersey.

BULLET-PROOF VEST NOT SUFFICIENT PROTECTION

Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP).—Lease is lease and vest is vest, but whether the twain shall meet depends upon G. L. Potter of Lafayette, Ind.

Potter, wrapped in a bullet-proof vest, was in town to transact a bit of business involving a lease. He acquired the lead-shedding waistcoat after the man with whom he was to deal began talking hostile.

The party of the second part is reported to have spoken to Potter in terms of mayhem, murder and massacre when the Lafayette man first approached him. It was then Potter bought the armor.

Readers of the daily prints may recall the circumstances under which the rest purchase was made. Police, learning that a man was buying it, got on the trail. They shadowed him to a bank. Potter's only purpose in going to the bank was to get money to pay for the vest. Police, though, thought he intended to rob the place. When he emerged and drove away, police pursued and finally cornered him. Potter thought it was Chicago gangsters and threw out his chest to take their bullets in the vest. Eventually the matter was explained satisfactorily to everybody.

That should have been an end to the matter, but it wasn't. Potter, in his iron shirt, called police again yesterday, demanding protection. He said that vest or no vest he was a virtual prisoner at 6036 Kenwood avenue because a mysterious voice had told him over the phone that he would be killed if he left the house. Potter, therefore, had become something of a homebody.

Police assigned a guard. The gentleman from Indiana intimated that unless sleepers were taken to remedy the situation, he would return to Lafayette while the returning was good.

Crescent Club Banquet.

The Crescent Social Club held its annual banquet at Lorus Grove House on New Year's eve. The evening was spent in games and dancing. At the stroke of 12 the supper bell rang and all marched to the dining room, where a bountiful chicken supper was served. After supper Mrs. Rhoda Elworth, acting as toastmaster, called on each member for a few words. Mr. Arace, the main speaker in of the evening, gave a review of the work of the club and hoped all would be at the next banquet. Guests then returned to the dance hall for further enjoyment. At an early hour in the morning, after an exhibition of the cake walk, all left for home tired but happy, agreeing that the managers of Lorus Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Warth, sure know how to entertain.

Carolino-Klim.

Miss Marion Klim of 58 Meadow street and John Carolino of 14 Crane street were united in marriage on Sunday, December 29, at St. Mary's Church by the Very Rev. Joseph B. Scully, pastor. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Michael Klim of New York city. She wore an ivory satin gown and veil of Spanish lace and carried a shower bouquet of white rose buds. Mrs. Albert Appa, matron of honor, wore an orchid satin gown with slippers to match, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Josephine Todelsky of Newkirk avenue and Miss Lena Carolino of East Kingston, were dressed in green satin with slippers and hats to match. They carried bouquets of tea roses. The bridegroom, John Carolino, his best man, Albert Appa, and attendants, Charles Carolino and James Solile were formal dress. After the church ceremony a reception was held in Immaculate Conception Hall on Delaware avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Carolino are at home to their friends at 1 Wurts street, where they have a newly-furnished residence.

In addition to the nails, the only clues were a small coiled spring, a piece of copper wire, and bits of the brown paper in which the bomb had been wrapped.

Federal experts were called into the case in the hope of determining the type of explosive and detonating mechanism that was used. A thorough examination of the paper for water marks or any other clues that might lead to its source was planned. Meanwhile, four surviving victims of the explosion were under treatment in Washington hospitals.—Mrs. John Hall, who was seriously hurt, and her children, Dorothy, four and one half years, whose face was torn by the blast, Thomas, eight, and Leslie, 16, whose hands were mangled.

Albany, Jan. 3 (AP).—Taking advantage of a lull in legislative activity, Governor Roosevelt devoted the greater part of today to work on the executive budget. The budget, expected to exceed the $256,000,000 budget of last year by almost $50,000,000, will be submitted to the legislature January 15.

Included in the budget will be items to provide for the completion of all Normal School construction started last year. Two schools have been destroyed by fire since the drafting of the last budget and the items in the next budget have been considered with a view to reconstructing those schools and modernizing other structures.

Another rather unfavorable thing about the small red hats, now the vogue among the jellybeans, is that they are too red to mislay.

We know what happens to the high school boys who ride 13 in a coupe: They become movie doormen and tell everyone there are seats inside.

"Ragpicks have been forbidden on the beach at Larga, Ayrshire, Scotland." It is not said what the thrifty Scot will use for water wings.

Speaking of suntan, it's the town club's opinion that the girls who use it ought to be taken out and tanned in the good old-fashioned way.

"This self-extinguishing cigarette is not really new," says a much-traveled friend. "Have you ever tried to keep a pipe going in England in April?"

Let's Pondering

The farmer owned fields on each side of the golf links. It so happened that he was taking a short cut from one to another when the club's worst member was addressing his ball.

The worst member wagged his driver to and fro for several minutes, missed four swings, and finally managed to hit the ball about a dozen feet. Then he glanced up and saw the farmer.

"I say," he protested, "only golfers are allowed on this course, you know."

"The farmer nodded.

"I do know," he replied. "But I won't say nothing if you don't."—London Answers.

Long Freight Trains

The average number of cars carried by freight trains in 1923 was 48 per train. The Erie railroad ran a train of 251 cars, 8,547 feet long, on July 23, 1914. The train weighed 17,902 tons. In November, 1914, the New Haven ran a train from Victoria, Va. to Roanoke of 201 cars, 8,482 feet long, weighing 14,573 tons and making the 124 miles in 7 hours and 35 minutes. Both the New Haven and Virginian trains had only four loaded cars. The Canadian Pacific ran a wheat train of 133 cars, weighing 8,275 tons. This is about the heaviest train run for that number of cars.

COAST GUARD RUN
BY STERN EX-PROFESSOR.

Washington, (AP).—A physically compact former teacher, given to saying things succinctly, is Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard.

Papers on his desk jiggled as taps of an emphasizing finger punctuated remarks about his now famous statement that the coast guard will not use "amiable gestures" in stopping liquor smuggling.

The Billard pronouncement, dropped into the restless sea of controversy over prohibition enforcement, caused widely varying comment here and brought a new focusing of notional attention on the coast guard's work and its men.

"The coast guard is indoctrinated with the idea of doing any job given to it—expeditiously, efficiently and fairly," Admiral Billard said.

"Preventing liquor smuggling is the most difficult task that ever has confronted the coast guard, or any sea force for that matter."

"We are going and we have gone about this thing strictly within the law. If anybody gets hurt, we regret that. But we cannot help it if they violate a fundamental law of the country which we are charged with enforcing."

Doing its job well is religion with the coast guard and its commandant sees the task of preventing liquor smuggling as something that must be accomplished to keep the historic record of the service free from failures.

The most important duty of the service, in peace times, is saving life and property at sea, and in 1929 it rescued from peril or saved the lives of 4,375 persons.

Admiral Billard, directing the widely spaced forces against liquor smuggling, was named commandant of the coast guard in 1924, just 30 years to the day after he entered the service as a cadet. His sea-wrinkled eyes have seen plenty of service.

There was the time when the U. S. S. Aphrodite, of which he was in command, dumped a mine in the North Sea and her stern crumpled. But she made port. Her commandant was awarded the navy cross for service in European waters.

Admiral Billard left a teacher's desk to enter the coast guard. He was commissioned an ensign in 1896. He has served on all the coasts of the United States and in Alaska, Hawaiian and West Indian waters.

AT THE THEATRES

Today.

Kingston: "Rio Rita," as great as the musical comedy of the same name. Great singers, great actors and beautiful settings. Well worth seeing.

Broadway: "The Lone Star Ranger," Zane Grey's first "talkie" in which George O'Brien and Sue Carol bring back the days of six shooters and other things.

Orpheum: "The Shannons of Broadway." The Gleasons, famous comedy team, make a comedy talkie. Just a comedy.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "The Two Black Crows," Moran and Mack bring their best "gags" to the talkies and with Evelyn Brent doing the "heavy" part, the picture is worth seeing. An opportunity to see radio favorites.

Broadway: Same.

Orpheum: "So This is College," just another version of the same old college life, with dancing, music and the unavoidable football thrill.

Market for Fruits
And Vegetables

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—The price trend on green peas was upward in a slightly firmer market. Receipts were moderate. Cakes of approximately 40 and 45 pounds from Mexico wholesaled at $4.25-$4.75, occasionally $5.00; while California consignments realized from $3.75 to $4.25.

Despite limited offerings of Western New York celery, the demand was insufficient to absorb the supplies, and the market ruled dull. Stock in the rough packed in two-thirds crate peddled out from $2.75-$3.50, mainly at $3.00-$3.25. California celery in large crates sold from $3.00-$5.50.

Supplies of white potatoes were moderate. Price changes were few and small, in a continued firm market. Early morning trading was fair. Most of the supply was from Maine, and Green Mountain potatoes, in bulk, sold at $5.25 and $5.50 per 160 pounds.

Demand for New York state cabbage was moderate, but the undertone of the market held steady to firm. Bulk, White Danish cabbage peddled out at $35.00-$40.00 per ton, and red from $40.00-$50.00. To December 28, 1929, this state had shipped 7745 carloads of cabbage as against 6331 for the same period last season.

Arrivals of apples were moderate again today, from our own state. The market ruled steady with the demand fairly good. The highest price obtained on the downtown pier on Western New York McIntosh, U. S. Grade 2 1/2 inch, was $10.00 per barrel, Baldwins $7.00, Rhode Island Greenings $5.00 and Northern Spies $7.50.

Demand for domestic yellow onions was generally slow, but the tone of the market was about steady. Receipts were moderate. One hundred pound sacks of Western New York yellow onions changed hands at chiefly $2.10, whereas consignments from the middle western states commanded as high as $2.35.

Bandits Hold Up Albany Restaurant.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3 (AP).—Five bandits, masked and carrying pistols, held up the Caldes Restaurant, a few yards from police headquarters today. Diners were not molested, the robbers escaping with only the contents of the cash register, about $150.

RANCHMAN TO HANG FOR BRUTAL MURDER

Shot Husband and Then Attacked Widow.

Deadwood, S. D.—George Brownfield, who in a moment of mad passion, is accused of shooting and killing Theodore Thomas, ex-service man, so he could possess Thomas' wife, has been sentenced to be hanged at the Wyoming penitentiary at Rawlins on February 10 next. His crime was committed in the region near where South Dakota and Wyoming join, and it was a South Dakota officer, Sheriff Long, of Belle Fourche, and other Dakotans who were first on the scene of the murder and assisted in the capture of the slayer.

The murder was committed early in the morning of July 30, Thomas was a sheep herder and lived in a large sheep wagon with his young wife, the sheep range being at a place remote from the nearest town. The testimony offered at the trial at Brownfield showed the crime to be one of the most brutal and uncalculated in the history of the frontier.

Invited to Spend Night.

Brownfield arrived at the sheep wagon home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas in the evening of July 29, and as it was getting into the couple, with the customary Western hospitality, invited him to remain all night, so he could return to his own ranch, many miles away, the following day. During the early hours of the morning of July 30 he lured Thomas from the sheep wagon on the pretext that he had heard coyotes among Thomas' sheep.

When at a point some distance from the sheep wagon, Brownfield is alleged to have shot and killed Thomas, and then returned to the sheep wagon and attacked the dead man's widow. She finally succeeded in making her escape from him and took refuge among the sheep flock until he had left the place.

Then she emerged from her hiding place and sought her husband, whose body she found at the spot where he had fallen. Mrs. Thomas knew Brownfield, who was well known throughout the district, and she told the officers who had committed the crime. They were speedily on his trail, and within a few hours had arrived at his ranch, finding him calmly doing some chores about the place. He disclaimed all knowledge of the crime and stated he had not been away from his ranch for several days.

Defendant Is Calm.

Met a wet saddle blanket assisted in the officers fastening the crime upon him, notwithstanding his protestations of innocence. The keen-eyed officers, in looking about the Brownfield ranch, noticed his saddle pony and examining it, found it gave evidence of having been ridden hard not many hours before the arrival of the officers. They discovered that the saddle blanket was still wet. Much was made of this evidence during Brownfield's trial, and it had important bearing on the jury returning a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, which made it mandatory for the court to sentence Brownfield to be hanged.

When confronted with Mrs. Thomas, Brownfield continued to remain calm and coolly stated he did not know her and had never seen her before. He maintained this same attitude when he testified in his own behalf during his trial. He stoutly insisted he knew nothing whatever about the crime and had nothing to do with it.

When sentenced to be hanged,

Brownfield took the sentence in the same unflinching manner he has maintained since being arrested for the crime.

Restaurants Expect to Lose Spoons, Not Phones

Hastings, Neb.—Restaurant owners are somewhat rueful to the disappearance of salt shakers, knives, forks and napkins from their cafes, but in the opinion of a Hastings restaurant owner, taking telephones is carrying the joke a bit too far.

Shortly after a group of traveling orchestra men had left a local restaurant, the proprietor stepped to his telephone to call his home, but there was no phone.

Police were informed of the matter, and learning that the orchestra was on its way to City Center, called Sheriff Lurr, who went to the rooms occupied by the orchestra members. The missing phone was found among the belongings of one of the men.

On payment by the group of the costs of installing a new phone, and settlement for the damage, the matter was dismissed.

Everybody is for peace until a bunch of nuts start a war.

Favors Selective
Immigration

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP).—Selective immigration as a panacea for two of the nation's problems—racketeering and unemployment—and to improve economic conditions is advocated by Harry E. Hull, recently reappointed by President Hoover as commissioner general of immigration.

It will be a happy new year for the commissioner if Congress during the coming twelve months makes this system the foundation of the country's immigration policy. In his sponsorship of it he will have the support of the American Federation of Labor.

Asserting that in contrast to the present system, under which thousands of unneeded alien laborers are admitted annually, selective immigration would permit accepting only those who would aid industry, Mr. Hull said today it would be based upon one simple formula.

"We would find out where a man is going," he said, "what he is going to do there and whether there is room for him under economic needs before admitting him. If he intended engaging in some occupation in which there is already a surplus, he would not be permitted to come."

Several bills already are pending in Congress to allow selective immigration to a limited extent, but none goes as far as the commissioner desires. Under his plan certain standards based upon the actual economic needs of the country as determined by the secretaries of state, commerce, agriculture and labor would be set up and aliens who failed to meet those qualifications would be barred. Mr. Hull believes many countries would be unable to fill their present quotas under that system and that immigration probably would be reduced from 50,000 to 100,000 annually as a result.

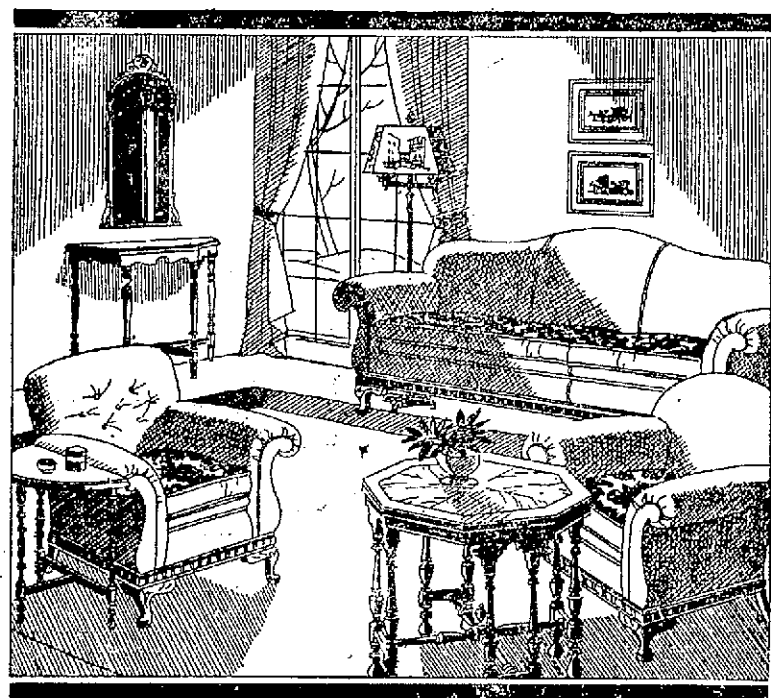

In support of his demand for preferential immigration the commissioner cited that in Europe there are upward of 2,000,000 persons seeking admittance to this country, while the annual quotas of the countries concerned are only about 150,000. Under the law, those who have filed applications first would be admitted, although they might be coal miners, with experts much needed here in some particular field below them.

Spinny's Beat Margaretville

Spinny's Radio Five of Port Ewen overthrew the Margaretville quintet, 40-26, Thursday night at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, in a game that was the Radio Men's first to finish.

The Port Ewen players gained a grip on the contest in the first quarter, which they won 8-4. Holding their lead throughout the second quarter, the Spinny team was in front, 18-12, at half time.

Although Margaretville played extra hard throughout the last two quarters, the mountaineers were unable to gain a footing against the Spinny's, who cut loose in the third quarter and swamped their opponents under a deluge of successful shots.

Hart Joins Guard Fighters

Vince Hart, who at one time was looked upon as Kingston's most promising lightweight, signed up in Captain E. C. Lawson's battery of the 156th Field Artillery Thursday night and likely will be seen in action at the armory some time in February, when the next fight card will go on.

Hart has many admirers hereabouts and no doubt will be a big drawing card as a National Guard fighter. It is figured that he will reach a high mark in the soldier pugilist ranks. He is a hard worker in the ring and his type of fighting will get him plenty of matches, it is thought.

Johnny Carpio, former ring enemy of Hart, is in the same battery with Vince. Whether the two ever will meet again has not even been thought of. Carpio has not been active in pugilistic circles of the National Guard of late and the announcement of his retirement would not surprise his friends. They, however, would like to see him stage a comeback and meet Hart in one of the old "naturals" that the two used to put on here before the boxing commission became so strict in carrying out its laws around Kingston.

Regardless of Carpio's return to the ring, there are plenty of boys in the National Guard to give Hart a peek of trouble, so local fans no doubt will be able to see their former idol do some spectacular ring warring in the future.

Butler Bulldogs Feast on Leading Quintets

Defeating the "big fellows" is easy for the Butler Bulldogs of Indianapolis, who this season won from Purdue, Montana State and Vanderbilt basketball teams. Oral Hildebrand and Marshall Christopher are stars of the five developed by Coach Tony Hinkle.

By CLAUDE WOLFF
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Indianapolis (AP)—Butler's battling Bulldogs of basketball are at it again—knocking off the big shots of the game.

With the same abandon of the three preceding seasons when the Bulldogs won 53 and lost nine games, they defeated Purdue, Montana State and Vanderbilt in early season tilts. These three are championship hopes in their sections.

Butler was named national basketball champion for last year by the National Athletic Association of Philadelphia, an organization which recognizes a leader in each sport.

Art Shires Now Under Suspension

Detroit, Jan. 3 (AP)—Arthur (The Great) Shires, White Sox socker and a lad who might be heavyweight champion if he were half as good as he is reported to have said he is, is under suspension by the Michigan Boxing Commission. The charge, which Shires denies indignantly, is that his representatives sought to have Shires' opponent in a scheduled fight here take a "dive".

The commission acted yesterday after receiving a statement from Vance Gildersleeve, manager of Battling Shires (who was to have been Shires' opponent) in which Gildersleeve said Shires' representatives told him Shires would have to "take a dive" or Shires would not go through with the fight.

The hour, which was to have taken place last night, was called off when physicians for the commission found Shires was suffering from a severe cold.

Shires pool-poled the idea that anyone representing him would suggest that Battling Shires "dive". He will not, however, be permitted to go through with scheduled fights at Flint, Jackson and Grand Rapids, James M. Brown, chairman of the commission, said.

WALTER HAGEN STARTS AGAINST FIELD OF 250

Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP)—The great Walter Hagen, who lately has failed to show the form which brought the British open crown to his determined brow, today came forward to start a defense of his Long Beach open tournament title against a field of more than 250 entrants over the Municipal golf course. The three-day contest, which will end Sunday, carries a $3,500 purse.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Whether it is as a leader or competitor, the task of staging a comeback in any line of sport after a long lay-off is as tough as any assignment we can think of.

Like a lot of others, Bill Carrigan has found that out. The one-time aggressive leader of a world's championship baseball club failed to lift the Red Sox out of the second division in three years of effort.

A dozen years after he had become a prosperous Maine banker, Carrigan was persuaded to go back to Boston. A contract calling for $25,000 a year was an inducement. Old Bill tackled the job manfully but he found ball-players and ball-playing somewhat different from the rough and tough days of the pennant-winning Red Sox.

Unquestionably a great leader of men, Carrigan did not have the material with which to compete with the richer, more fortunate clubs of this American League era.

Carrigan stressed defense in his attempts to rebuild the Red Sox but he discovered that the home run has become a wrecker of the best defense in baseball.

Carrigan seldom gave interviews. He never sought the limelight. One rainy day up at Fenway park, however, I talked about the old days with him. I asked him whom he regarded as the best of all-around players.

"Tris Speaker," Carrigan replied, without hesitation. "Tris was superlative in every department of the game, a great hitter and peerless defensive player."

Carrigan might have been warned against his managerial comeback by the experiences of Jim Callahan and Frank Chance.

Callahan, after a half dozen years out of organized baseball, was induced to come back and manage the White Sox in 1912, but the best he could do was fourth.

Chance tried unsuccessfully to do something with the New York Yankees and later the Boston Red Sox after his remarkable triumphs as the peerless leader of the old Chicago Cubs.

Chance managed the Yankees in 1913 and 1914 but failed to lift the club out of the second division rank. He retired from the game, devoting his time to a fruit ranch on the Pacific coast until he accepted a $25,000 offer from Harry Frazee to manage the Red Sox in 1923.

The Sox finished last but Chance, disgusted, agreed to take a fling as manager of the Chicago White Sox. He was taken ill before the 1924 season started, however, never was able to join the team and died that year in September.

Football took the life of another famous leader who tried to come back—Percy Haughton. The old Harvard coach had retired from the game when Columbia induced him to take hold of its gridiron forces in 1923.

He had just begun to feel the satisfaction of progress when he was stricken in the middle of the 1924 season, just before going on the practice field, and died.

Connie Not Worrying About Boley

CONNIE MACK is not worrying as much about his shortstop, Joe Boley, as Athletic rooters are.

It is true that Mack's shortstopper, thirty-one years old and from Mahanoy, Pa., has not played the game since he was at bat as a customary for him.

His throwing arm went bad in the spring and he was not at all at his best in fielding. His hits were not so often enough to hang up a better mark than .255. But for all of the evident plate weakness this year, Connie Mack maintains that his man from the coal regions hits when they are needed most and that is what counts.

Joe Boley had a rather peculiar minor league career. He almost died with Baltimore. He played with the Orioles when that team was unbeatable in the International. For eight years he labored chivalrously helping Jack Dunn win pennants for a major league salary. The purchase price over Joe's head was heavy, and it is believed that it was cut after the eight years when Connie bought the shortstop in 1925.

Many thought that it was just another bad move on Mack's part. It was earnestly believed that Joe had seen his day in the minors. Records more or less tended to disprove this, however. Mack was almost exhausted experimenting with shortstops, but in Boley he found the man that clicked with the rest of the combination.

Joe is a steady hand after all his seasoning and a great help in double plays. Connie Mack likes him because he loves his play.

Football Is Dying

Conch Bob Fletcher, former star of the University of Illinois football team, who announced his resignation as head coach at the School of Applied Science with the comment that "intercollegiate football is dying." In discussing his retirement from his coaching duties to take up the practice of law, Fletcher predicted that although big football games will draw huge crowds for a few years to come, the game will not hold the public as it has in the past. Youngsters no longer play the game because they like it, Fletcher said.

Boxers at Amateur Shows to England Must Be Clothed Above the Waist

A game known as baseball was played by Frederick, prince of Wales, and his associates in 1715.

Joe Schuch, last year the leading intercollegiate league basketball scorer, is helping coach the Penn quints.

Detroit Tigers amassed 1,670 hits to lead the American league in 1929, but also committed the most errors, with 244.

The oldest event for three-year-olds in the United States is the Traven Stake, which was first run at Saratoga in 1864.

Cricket, known strictly as an English game, may be seen in Calcutta, Hongkong, Cape Town, Bombay and the West Indies.

Princeton has played football for 60 years, but the team of 1929 probably was the most unsatisfactory in the history of the school.

Daniel J. Donahue, attorney, one of the first residents of Lowell, Mass., to take up golf 35 years ago, recently made his first hole in one.

A record entry, 408 clubs, started play in the elimination tournament for the French Cup in association football, a facsimile of the English Cup.

The Boston Red Sox, with 38 home runs, hit fewer circuit blows than any other team in the major league season of 1929. And the Boston Braves hit only 33.

Reggie McNamara, forty-two-year-old bicycle racer, has competed in 68 six-day events since 1913 and won 14 of them more than any other rider in the history of this sport.

As a result of a promise made in 1926, Dr. John M. Thomas, president of Rutgers university, cannot carry a cane until his team scores a victory over Lafayette on the gridiron.

The vanguard of the New York Yankees will arrive in St. Petersburg, Fla., on February 23 to start spring training for the 1930 season. It was announced by Yankee officials.

One of the most unusual jobs held by the students making their way through college is that of Merle Hartford, backfield star of the University of Washington, a night turnkey in the county jail.

Elmer Eggert, third baseman with Mobile of the Southern association, was purchased by the St. Paul club of the American association. Pitcher Jack Connolly and a cash consideration were paid for Eggert.

Outfielder Leslie Mann Made "Sand Lot" Coach

The joint meeting of the American and National leagues closed after a five-hour session, in which the principal business consisted of passing appropriations totaling $50,000, calculated to aid in the development of young baseball players and to take care of needy veterans.

Ten thousand dollars of the amount set aside went to the National Amateur Athletic federation to establish the position of instructor in baseball coaching methods on the country's far-flung sand lots. Leslie Mann, former major league outfielder, is to hold this position. It was announced.

Floating Ice Hinders Ferry

The Kingston-Rhinebeck ferry continues to experience difficulty in making trips due to floating ice which blocks the channel. The Cornell tug Rob has been kept in commission to assist. At certain tide conditions it is impossible to force the ferry through the floating ice, kept churned up by the big river boats, which to date have been making regular trips.

When possible the ferry is run and whenever ice prevents that the tug Rob is operated to care for foot passengers, unless ice conditions prevent. On several occasions it has been impossible to operate and several days ago both the ferry and tug Rob became fast in the ice and it was necessary to get steam up on another tug and send it to the rescue of the Rob. It was several hours before the Rob was released.

Long Eyelashes Called Signs of Ill Health

Long eyelashes always have been considered a mark of beauty, but it remains for a Japanese physician to take the joy out of life by pointing out that they are also a sign of poor health. Doctor Tamaki of the pediatric department of the Kyushu Imperial university, has made a two-year study of about 7,000 children and has concluded that most children with long eyelashes are in poor health. It has been reported to the American Medical association.

The lashes of consumptive children grow twice as long as those of healthy children. Sickly children have longer and prettier lashes than those in good health. The lashes of healthy children will grow about an eighth of an inch during the first year of life, while those of children suffering from scrofula grow nearly a quarter of an inch. Doctor Tamaki has found. No explanation of the cause of this condition has been made, nor has it been accepted as a definite criterion of the state of a child's health.—Kansas City Star's Science Service.

The Weeping Statue

In the ruins of Arbroath abbey, in Scotland, is the decapitated statue of a Scottish king, and at his feet lies a headless lion. This is King William the First, called William the Lion. He founded the abbey in memory of his friend, Thomas Becket. Here the king was buried, and during the reformation his statue and that of the lion were beheaded. It is a strange fact that if the weather is going to be wet, the stone over the region of the king's heart always becomes shiny and moist, and sometimes water actually trickles down. That is why it is called "The Weeping Statue."

OUR LEADERSHIP IN WORLD PEACE BEGAN 200 YEARS AGO

William Penn Proposed World Parliament and Washington Sponsored Arbitration Plan.

New York.—Although the first notable assurances of world peace have been achieved in the past ten years, between Wilson's sponsorship of the League of Nations and the Hoover-McDonald conference, American leadership to the movement for world-wide amity and the renunciation of war dates back more than 200 years. This is the significant fact brought out by Florence B. Hoeckel, who traces the history of world peace movement from its inception in the current issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Even while America was still colonial "William Penn and another Quaker, John Bellers, laid plans before the sovereigns of Europe for the creation of an international parliament to maintain peace," says the writer. "In order to avoid the troublesome question of precedence, Penn proposed that the representatives of the various nations meet in a round room which should have 'diverse doors to come in and go out at.'"

Although arbitration was practiced by the Grecian states, the practice lapsed until George Washington revived it in modern times and was by his direction that John Jay negotiated the first arbitration treaty of modern history with England. Arbitration remained thereafter an American principle but it was not until the settlement of the Alabama claims between England and the United States after the Civil war that the method attracted favorable attention in Europe.

"Before the World war no treaties, except as between Latin-American countries and Spain, agreed to submit any and all disputes to this method of peaceful settlement," says the Good Housekeeping writer. "Since the war nearly 100 treaties have been signed by European nations admitting 'all questions whatsoever' to peaceful settlement."

It was William Ladd, an American, who founded in 1915 the first national organization with the avowed purpose of working for world peace, the article shows, and it was Ladd whose plans for an international court to settle disputes between nations provided the basis of the tribunal set up at The Hague peace conference.

To illustrate how the idea of international co-operation and renunciation of war has advanced in recent years, the writer points out that "when shortly after the Civil war, Julia Ward Howe went abroad to rouse the mothers of the world to unite in a women's peace crusade to protect their young against war, she was denied the privilege of speaking at peace gatherings."

Monks of 1400 Bathed Rather Infrequently

London.—Rules for bathing in the Benedictine monasteries of the Fourteenth century have been discovered here in the regulations of St. Augustine's Canterbury, and St. Peter's, Westminster.

Monks were allowed to take baths twice a year—before Christmas and Pentecost. Previous to the Fourteenth century, four baths were allowed annually, but this number was cut in half because bathing was considered a luxury except when necessary for the sick.

Only four monks could bathe in one day, so it took more than two weeks to accommodate the 60 monks in the monastery. No baths were allowed on Sunday.

The monks had servants to wash them. At Westminster these servants received extra food and beer on "bath days."

The baths were taken sitting in a tub, instead of standing, as was probably the secular custom at the time. Monks were not allowed to stay in the baths to "soak" after they had been washed.

At first, bathing was conducted in complete silence, but "that good custom has been entirely abandoned in these modern times" of the Fourteenth century.

Prince of Wales Knits With Other Notables

London.—While knitting at pastime for men has gained popularity lately, it was learned with surprise that the prince of Wales had taken it up.

Three scarves knitted by the prince are exhibited at the display of Queen Mary's London Needlework Guild, with three others done by Prince George.

Other distinguished male knitters include the earl of Harewood, formerly Vincent Lascelles, who is the husband of Princess Mary; Baron Gainsford and Baron Holmpatrick.

English Airmen Plan Record Nonstop Flight

London.—Another British attempt to establish a nonstop long distance flight record is to be made soon. The route has not yet definitely been decided upon but it is considered likeliest that it will be from London to Cape Town, a distance of 6,000 miles. The machine will be the same Fairey-Porter which flew nonstop from England to India last April, and it will be piloted, as before, by Squadron Leader A. G. Jones-Williams and Flight Lieut. N. H. Jenkins.

How to Live

"How to live," wrote Stuart Sherman, "that happens, in my opinion, to be the most important and the most neglected of all studies among the American people—how to live so that life shall taste somehow good each day it passes here on earth."

Supervisors to Meet January 10

The newly elected members of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors will meet at their rooms in the court house in this city on Friday, January 10, to organize by election of a chairman, clerk, county attorney and jail physician, and later transact business that may come before them and begin their session for 1930-1931.

A New York tenor claims he originated the "crooning" style of singing, with a megaphone. This is enlightening: We had imagined he had a plush pillow in his mouth.

"They laughed when I walked up to the piano," said the installment collector. "But their laughter turned to astonishment when I carried it out and placed it in the van."

All Job had was bolts, as he frequently said, and we doubt whether there were any young people working their way through college by selling magazines, at that time.

Scientists say the Grand canyon is slowly disappearing and in a million years will no longer exist. Careful motorists, in the meantime, will put on the brakes at the brink.

A racing pigeon has succeeded in flying from England to America. The enterprise was fruitless, though, since there are just as many English sparrows here to steal his lunch.
